Vol. 1 Issue 5 Traveling into the new millennium...we're coming out with the BIG BOYS

MY STORY....

They came back.... sooner then later...

This is the second part of their visitations Two nights later from the day when I was gone for four hours, I lost two and one half hours. I have no memory of where I was that night.

I called my mother to tell her I was on my way to pick her up to take her shopping. I remember leaving work, stopping by to check the P.O. box. That might have taken another five minutes. But what should have taken no longer than forty-five minutes, turned into two and a half hours of not knowing or being aware that something was wrong. Until, I got to my mothers. This time there were absolutely no memories of anything out of the ordinary happening until I got to my mothers when I walked into the door, she was somewhat upset and worried. It was now to late to take her to the stores (it was after nine o'clock). She asked me where I had been and why I hadn't called. Had no answers for her. I stood there looking at her mumbling ...I...I don't know. That's all I could say.

In the first part of the story, I describe the four men that I remembered to be government operatives, I'm not quite so sure of that now.

The reason for that, I went out to purchase a gun for protection; In my mind from the previous incident, I thought that this would stop anything thing like that happening to me again, if I had the gun. And believe me I probably would have pulled the gun on anyone who might have approached me that looked anything like a government official. I realized that the gun was not going to protect me but cause me nothing but problems, I certainly wouldn't want to hurt an innocent bystander nor go too jail for shooting someone just because they look like a government official I believe that a lot of the memories I am starting too have were probably planted in my mind. But there is no doubt that the physical abuse took place. Because after the second incident, I was left with more bruises then I had from the first incident.

So they proved their point to me. Any time anywhere, they can get to me. Well, I guess there is not a whole lot I can do except try to go on to keep my sanity intact. It's pretty tough right now, I don't sleep until daylight comes. Everyday it seems as if another bruise or burn appears. I have a bruise and scrape marks on my right chin which looks like somebody "sucker" punched me. If they did, I don't remember it. At least not for the time being

Right now I am planning on taking some time off and get out of the public's eye. For the past four years I have been making myself and my experiences known to people. But for now, I'm going to sit back for the next year and see what happens to the world. I suspect many cataclysmic event too be taking place. As a matter of fact they are already happening; It's just going too get more intense. Another gear has been shifted and it is time to start facing a lot of harsh realities for a lot of people. Those of you out there who are still asleep, Cold water is about to be thrown right in your face.

them together Wheat the hell do they think they will create? I have been waiting for this news to come out for a lot of years. The other night when I heard it on TV, I had to sit down and ask myself why? Why do they want to do it? I guess simply because they can do it. Well people, somebody has forgotten some Bible lessons from Sunday school. What happened before is happening again. I think we are in for some serious changes and I fear for the children for they are the future and we are the past.

My apology's to all of are subscriber for the news letter for being so late. November 2, I was in a serious car accident. It has been a slow recovery. Specially when I fell off of my crutches three time injury broken bones and braking more bones. Making my recovery longer. Unfortunately my assistant was having her own problems and was not able to work on the newsletter. I am back on track and I would like to welcome aboard Kathryn Huffman a great new assistant. She brings with her (a lot of good laughs) many talents and is going to be a valuable asset's not just to the newsletter but to MUFON also.

So give the little lady a big welcome! You will meet her at the conference on April 24

FACES OF THE VISITORS: A SURVEY OF ALIEN CONTACT

BY MICHAEL LINDEMANN

PART TWO

Jacob's believes we are well into the end-game in this grand and malevolent strategy. While unsure of the exact timing of the takeover, he reports: Many abductees feel that "something is going to happen" soon and that the aliens have their goal within sight. The indications are that this could mean from within the next five years to within the next two generation." And, lest one harbor any hope for fair treatment under the new regime, Jacob's spells out the likely fate of the majority non-abductee population of earthlings. Among abductees he has personally worked with, Jacob's says, some are told "that non-abductees will be kept as a small breeding population in case the hybridization program has unforeseen problems. The evidence seems to suggest that the future will be played out primarily with aliens, hybrids and abductees. The non-abductees will have an inferior role, if any at all. The new order will be insect-like aliens in ventral followed by other aliens, hybrids, abductees, and finally, non-abductees By insect-like aliens. Jacob's refers to tall "greys" with mantis-like features as have been often described in abduction literature. In "The Threat Jacob's refers to other types of aliens as well, including smaller greys, grey type beings with differing skin tones, "Nordics" and "reptilians." He suspects that the often-reported Nordic or distinctly human-looking aliens are actually hybrids created types. But he leaves no doubt that the insect-like tall greys are in charge of the changes underway on earth Though Jacob's research is meticulous and passionately reported, his conclusions are disputed by many other voices in the UFO community. Jim Marrs author of the recent book "Alien Agenda," concedes that human evolution may have been manipulated by aliens more than once, but he doesn't believe in a malevolent invasion. "I take a more positive attitude," he told CNI. News in a recent interview. "If there were alien races out there who wanted to come and somehow enslave this world, particularly in an overt fashion, I think they would have done it long before now. The historical record shows that this alien presence has been here since before the recorded history of mankind. Surely they wouldn't have waited until we've got the capability of going off planet, laser weaponry and so forth. I don't see any reason to get overly fearful at this point." Hollywood special effects artist Steve Neil A lifelong abductee whose graphic depiction's of grey aliens and abduction scenarios have been featured in numerous television shows, says he can understand Jacob's point of view but thinks something more gradual in and positive may be taking place. Speaking with CNI News, Neil admitted that he's whispered the truth of all creations !!! pg4

experienced big "mood swings" about his encounters, from deep fear and anger on one hand to a kind of giddy euphoria on the other. Now, he says, he's found a middle position that he's happy with. In his view, the visitors are certainly manipulating the human race -- but they are simply part of the grand of nature. "The swings I've been through kind of encapsulate what this is all about-- going from one extreme to the next, and then arriving at the middle," he says. "That's something that everything in the universe tries to do, reach a balance no matter what. In the end, I don't really view this as good or bad. I view it as part of what I'm part of, this amazing mechanism of the universe that makes nature function as it does. Every creature is caught up in some aspect of it, no matter where you go." Asked about Jacob's view that aliens might be engineering the end of humanity as we know it, Neil suggested that our current situation may be comparable to an earlier period of human genetic advancement. "In a way, Jacob's is right," Neil said. Consider that Neanderthals no longer exist. That was an extinction. But I'm not in the position to decide if it's something that should be viewed as evil -- one species developing or being engineered into another. I think Cro-Magnon was an improvement on the Neanderthal. And I'm starting to believe that what we're looking for as "hybrid" human beings has already existed for a very long time. There are numbers of hybrids in our society today, in fact more than we can possibly imagine. The people who are having these experiences themselves, I feel, may be sorts of hybrids who have been genetically engineered and altered, going back generation after generation in their families. I am starting too see children in this world who are so incredibly brilliant, and have this light (inside) like no other children I've seen. I've met some of these kids. If it's what I think it is, it's brilliant, because it will be slipped in so smoothly, and these kids are so powerful, that they are bound to change the world." Not everyone, of course, can be sanguine about a situation in which everything we now regard as human is being gradually manipulated into something else-- even if that something else is "better" on some cosmic scale of value. Other researchers and experiences hold views greatly different from Jacob's

Hopkins and even Neil For these people -- Jacob's refers to them as Positives -- visitors to earth are unambiguously benevolent and have our physical well-being and spiritual advancement foremost in mind. Notable among this group is Dr. Steven Greer, founder of CSETI (Center for the Study of Extraterrestrial Intelligence) and a leading proponent of human-initiated close encounters or CE-5s.

Also noted for such views are psychologist Richard Boylan, author of "Close Extraterrestrial Encounters: Positive Experiences with Mysterious Visitors"; and Lyssa Royal, author of "Visitors From Within" and "Preparing for Contact," whose writings are primarily the product of channeling. Such articulators of the "POSITIVE" outlook generally agree that the ET intelligence's widespread, diverse, highly organized (in the sense of a Galactic Federation or similar cosmic government) and benevolently active on earth for the express purpose of assisting humanity through a time of turmoil and transformation. For the most part, though not unanimously they argue that the fearful and negative views of abduction put forward by David Jacob's and his allies are products of human misunderstanding, not alien misbehavior. Even the term "abduction" is generally dismissed by them as wholly unfair and misleading. PART 3 IN MAY'S ISSUE.

The Various Kinds of Extraterrestrial

by Richard Boylan, Ph.D.

"Race" distinguishes various extraterrestrials of decidedly different appearances. More research into exo-biology (the science of extraterrestrial life's physical structure and processes), will help us understand better how many races of intelligent species we are dealing. So would the de-classifying of the Government's already considerable covert research on extraterrestrial biology, (such as is going on at NASA's Ames Research Center, Sunnyvale, CA, and at Los Alamos National Laboratories, NM). For convenience I shall use the term race to distinguish extraterrestrials of significantly different anatomical features.

The most common extraterrestrial race encountered has a number of variants. These variations in size and details of appearance may represent origins on different planets. This race is popularly, and rather imprecisely, called the "Greys." The "Greys" are stereotyped, by uninformed or careless writers, as: Short up-right, two-legged beings, three-and-a-half feet tall, with grayish- white skin, large, hairless, fetal-shaped heads, with huge, all-black, sloping, almond-shaped eyes without pupils or eyelids, whose eyes wrap around partially towards the temple-area sides of the head, a narrow jaw tapering to almost a V, small nostril holes but no nose, a small, thin, lipless, horizontal slit for a mouth, thin torsos with no ribs and no genitals evident, long, spindly, but surprisingly strong arms reaching to the knees, similarly long, very thin legs, and hands with three, long, non-tapering, joint-less fingers, which end in claws instead of fingernails, but no thumb.

To be sure, there is such a race of beings; or at least a race, of which this is one variant. However, there are also: Five-foot tall "Greys", seven-foot tall "Greys", "Greys" with mushroom- white skin, "Greys" with brown skin, "Greys" with black skin, "Greys" whose large eyes have a thin nictating membrane which can extend across the eye, "Greys" with midnight-blue eyes, "Greys" with wispy fine small amounts of hair on their heads, "Greys" with four fingers, and "Greys" with three or four fingers and another finger positioned where the human thumb would be, and "Greys" whose fingers end with suction-cup-like tips.

There have also been extraterrestrials reported who have a large process of folds along the back of their heads, a series of deep creases or crevices along the top of the head, sloping down forward towards the front, and with a strongly-pronounced brow- ridge above the eyes.

Are these twelve different races; or variants based on evolving in different climactic zones on one planet? Does this represent racial variation within inhabited planets in one star system? Or are these variations which occur within one cluster of star systems? Or does the "Gray" genotype tend to appear in many different star systems, on some planets, along with other races, on other planets, within those same star systems? The truth is, we do not know. Or at least that information has not been released to the public. Thus, we are still at the stage of gathering information on the various different types of intelligent life-forms visiting our planet.

Part-2 Richard Boylan Various Kinds of Extraterrestrials

Another source of variation even within what is apparently one race is clothing. Many experiencers report that their "Grey" visitors wore no clothes. Others have seen "Greys" wearing long robes and hoods over their heads. Others have seen crews where both versions of attire, as well as close-fitting jumpsuits, were in evidence. Yet Greys are not the only ones wearing robes.

Another race of Extraterrestrials is the 4-to-5 1/2-foot tall Being, with a somewhat large head (by comparison with the human head) but not as proportionally large as the "Greys", and who has somewhat large (but smaller than the "Greys") dark oval eyes, spindly frame and limbs, and a hand with three long, cartilaginous, boneless fingers, which end with neither claw nor suction-cup, but rather "ordinary" fingertip shape, except that their fingers do not taper.

A more distinctive kind of extraterrestrial is the "Praying Mantis type" race. These Beings have long, narrow faces, with long, narrow, large eyes, sharply slanted upward and outward in an almost narrow-V position, given an almost insect-like appearance. This comparison is heightened by the Praying-Mantis types' extremely thin, long torsos, long, extremely-thin arms which are usually crooked into a sharp bend at the mid-joint, with the hand and fingers/mitten sloping almost vertical downward from the "wrist", and legs also bent at an almost right-angle at the mid-joint, creating a crouched pose. The overall effect is the characteristic "Praying Mantis" look. It should be noted That experiencers feel that this type is no insect, but rather an intelligent, gentle-spirited, but somewhat "hyper" and jerky-moving, human-like life-form both males and females.

Another race is the so-called "Reptilians", or "Reptoids", although I note again that there is no implication in these descriptors other than of intelligent, communicative persons. What distinguishes these "Reptilian" extraterrestrials is their skin, which has small, fine scales, rather than smooth, their face, which has larger-than-human yellowish-green eyes with a "starburst"-shaped pupil, the eyes often oval, and an almost snout-like blunt process in the area of the nose and mouth, giving this type an almost dragon-like humanoid appearance.

Another group of extraterrestrials for convenience, I call the "Jawas", after their resemblance to the creatures in the film, Star Wars. This group is distinguished by their clothing. They wear hoods and robes, are generally short (three to four-and-a-half feet tall), and their faces are concealed by the shadows thrown by their hoods. Sometimes there is a much taller hooded and robed one on board the UFO, who often stands to the Experiencer's left as s/he lies on the ET medical examining table. This Tall One appears to direct the procedures, and often is the one who telepathically communicates with the Experiencer. A few Experiencers have noted glowing eyes under the "Jawas" hoods. Other Experiencers have reported that when they got a glimpse of the Being whose face was shadowed by the hood, it was a type of "Grey." Still others saw neither glowing eyes "nor" "Greys" under the hoods, but rather never could distinguish the features in the shadows of the hoods. There are often mixed-race crews on the UFO's. In such cases there could be "Jawas" or "Praying Mantis" types or "Reptoids" or "Greys", joining in a coordinated effort in carrying out scientific or medical tasks.

A few Experiencers have noted robot-like figures, whose movements and "vibes" (or rather lack there of) strongly suggest that these are robots sent remotely by the extraterrestrials to observe, reconnoiter, and possibly retrieve objects. However, I have not encountered any reports of robots actually interfacing with humans to accomplish communication, or to remove the human to their craft for scientific examination. The robot-like figures appear to be relegated to the more impersonal tasks of information-gathering and stealthy surveillance, without the risk to the extraterrestrials that they would otherwise run of possibly encountering hostile human responses.

*Be at Peace and see a clear pattern and plan running through all your lives.
Nothing is by chance.*

Continuing from part 3 : The Various Kinds of Extraterrestrials

by Richard Boylan, Ph. D.

My research has come up with a goodly number of reports of "Humanoids", "Blondes", or "Nordics" extraterrestrials almost indistinguishable from humans. I have also encountered report where the Experienter believed that the extraterrestrial s/he was dealing with appeared to be human. However, in every case, this turned out to be an extraterrestrially-imposed mental visualization in the mind of the experienter, the so-called "screen memory." Upon closer looking, the experienter was able to see the actual non-human face of the extraterrestrial behind the mentally-imposed "human" mask. My favorite variation of this mental cloaking experience occurred to one experienter who believed she was encountering a human "spaceman." I invited the Experienter to look closely and carefully at the face of the "human spaceman." When she did so, she suddenly was startled. "Oh, my", she said, "It's not a human after all. It's one of those Greys." Other details made me suspect we were still not done. I suggested she study closely the face of her "Grey" visitor. Startled, she could see that it was a "Reptoid" who had previously cloaked himself mentally as a "Grey."

Another extraterrestrial racial type described are the short, chubby "Dwarf" extraterrestrials, with round pudgy faces. They seem to be relegated to doing the menial chores during a contact.

Undoubtedly, many more races could be described. We as humans are challenged by intelligent life that looks so different from us, a challenge which can be disturbing. But it can also remind us that the Source of All is myriad in its expression of lifeforms, including intelligent lifeforms, across the vast Universe. Only the anthropocentric would be offended by the creation of in-other ana-packages. Indeed, ET us that we are variant of in-life: partial intelligent lifeform, part-

THERE ARE ANSWERS AND THEN THERE ARE ANSWERS
by Don Berliner, Alexandria Va.

For over a half century we have been faced with a complex phenomenon for which there are, as yet, no answers that can be logically supported by facts.

But we answers. We need answers. We demand answers!

Increasingly, members of the UFO community have been manufacturing answers out of anything that even vaguely resembles facts. Two plus two equals 4,000. And if your conclusion can't be proven wrong, then it must be correct.

If your abductors cause you pain, they must be inherently evil. On the other hand, if they occasionally respond positively to your cries of suffering, they must be full of love for humanity.

If they show you babies who appear to combine features of humans and aliens, entirely too many of us eagerly conclude that they are manufacturing hybrids for the purpose of dominating the Earth through re-population.

But where are the facts to support these conclusions? For that matter, how do we know that anything reported by abductees is accurate? Isn't it possible that the aliens are creating a smoke screen of medical examinations sampling and the rest of the typical abduction scenario, to cover something else? Something that might be even more difficult for us to deal with? Or which they think might be too difficult for us?

Decades ago, the UFO subject consisted of little more than frequent reports of daylight fly-overs by disc-shaped craft. It was assumed by most of the so-called experts that they were conducting surveillance: Observing man and his culture, much as we have plans to study other planets. Why did we would behave under similar circumstances.

But they are not us! And we do not know who they are. We have no idea how they think, for we know nothing of their psychological make-up. And so we assume they think (and thus behave) like us. Is there anymore blatant example of man's conceit in all of history?

Almost always, the collection of a great amount of information a specific subject has led to knowledge, if not understanding. But not when it comes to UFOs and their operators, whom we define as other than human. Let's face it: Our knowledge of motivations and behavior is limited to other humans, and then it's far from complete or unanimously agreed on. We don't even have full understanding of the dogs, cats and other non-human pets with whom we live.

Much as all of us would like to think we know enough about UFOs and aliens to state with authority who they are and why they are here, we remain in the data-gathering stage. We have been in that stage for more than 50 years. And while it seems like a very long time, perhaps on the cosmic scale of matters, it will turn out to be little more than a blink of someone's eye.

Be patient. Be calm. Be methodical. And, most of all, be discriminating. With enough verified information, we may yet start will to learn something. But forcing facts into your pet conclusion will do nothing but retard real progress.

This is strictly my opinion and should not be considered the view of any organization (the Fund, MUFON, the NCAA, etc.)

How Do I Make It From Here....To THERE?

A Self-Help Guide for Abductees By Katharina Wilson

pg.. 9

Part 2

I published my life-story and my journal of eleven years as it relates to the experience phenomenon in The Alien Jigsaw. Like so many others who have interacted with nonhuman Beings, I reached a point where I felt compelled to share my information with the world. I realized that one Way I could turn this into something positive was to share my information and educate the public about the alien Beings.

The reason for Writing this guide is that I often think back to how I felt in 1987, and about the resources that were available to me. When I think about all of the people going through their own awakening (and remembering what I went through in 1987), I find myself asking new questions: What if you can't work with someone like Budd Hopkins or Dr. John Mack? What if you don't have a MUFON organization in your city, or perhaps you do, but they are not active? What if you are alone and you do not have anyone you can talk to about your experiences? What do You do then?

Self-help Ways To Gain Control

To learn more about Ms. Wilsons visit her web site at www.alienjigsaw.com or you can go to the Kentucky MUFON site at www.geocities.com/~kentuckymufon and go to our Elite Forum page and click on past Lectures and click on Katharinas link.

NETWORKING

Something that was helpful to me was to network with other abductees as well as with people who had an interest in the abduction phenomenon. One way you can do this is to attend UFO meetings. I have discovered that many of the people who attend these meetings, lectures, and symposia, have either seen a UFO themselves, are an experiences of abduction or have a family member or someone close to them who is an abductee. In most cases, you will meet people who share a desire to learn all they can about the UFO abduction phenomenon.

There are also several organizations, journals, and magazines that are aiding in the networking process. They are helping abductees and new researchers share their information with many people. A Partial list is included for your convenience

ABDUCTEES HELPING ABDUCTEES

Sometimes experiences of abduction reach a point where they take the initiative to help other abductees. Oftentimes they begin by meeting individually with others, and will then go on to hold small support group meetings. If you feel the need to move in this direction I advise you to move slowly and cautiously I've never advertised that I hold support groups and I don't advise that you do this pg. 10 either.

There is no need to "reinvent the wheel," so it is best too begin within the established UFO community. You will want to find out which groups aware already meeting and what their focus is. If you do this and sincerely want to help others, believe me, people will find you.

GOING PUBLIC

This is a complicated and difficult decision to make. It is important too know that there are different levels of going public. You can choose to use a pseudonym, have your face shaded on camera, use written media only (with no photo releases of your image), speak only at UFO conferences located outside the city where you live and work, or write articles about your experience. You may also choose too share your information with a researcher who will publish your story along with other cases they have researched.

I believe it was a good decision for me to go public I felt an overwhelming need to get my information out and doing so was cathartic I had had experiences there at fit the 'Hopkins Jacob's abductee mold and many that did not I knew that a book like The Alien Jigsaw had not been written yet and was needed.

In the end, it was my experiences involving seeing military and government personnel working with the aliens that made me take the risk. I knew I had to share this information with others because it was obvious that other researchers were not going to do it for me.

If you have information that has not been made public, then I strongly encourage you to publish your information. If you have experienced phenomena that have recently appeared in the published literature, but are not considered common, then I encourage you to contact the authors of those publications. It is important for everyone to understand what is really often reported, What is sometimes reported, and what type of experience or interaction is indeed rare.

STAGES, PHASES AND MOOD SWINGS

It is important not to expect too much from the UFO community. It is largely A volunteer based community that sometimes operates in a relatively unprofessional manner there are many important decisions you will have to make during an investigation of your personal experiences. There are also different stages you will go through: The initial shock when you realize that abductions are a part of your life What Dr. Mack terms "onothological shock," and the working through and assimilation of new and sometimes unusual memories.

Oftentimes, the next stage will be fear, and then anger because the abductions normally continue.

Sadly, many people get caught up in this stage and will spend years viewing yourself as a victim year after year, you are obviously not getting the information you require to move forward Support groups are temporary and should be supportive, not addictive. page 11

There is nothing wrong with viewing yourself as a victim as long as it is a temporary stage. This is a natural way for people to feel when they have been violated or forced to do something they didn't want to do. However, having been there and back, I want everyone who reads this to know that had I remained in the stage where I felt I as a victim, I never would have been able to learn and grow from my experiences. And, importantly, the type of book written from that perspective would not have been very helpful to anyone.

I began by meeting on and then I hosted support group meetings. Perhaps it is a reflection of my own transformation process that the following year I changed the format to discussion groups, and the year following that , to networking luncheons. I believe support groups have an important function but it is important too know that there are ways to grow through these experiences as a group.

Being abductee isn't easy, but there comes a time when you have to move forward. I believe that staying focused solely on one aspect off abductions is misleading, and inn the long run not very helpful. We need to look at all the cards: Good bad, funny strange, believable and unbelievable; and the involvement of all the players: Light Beings, aliens, hybrids, and humans (even if that includes government personnel).

While my intention is to help and offer solutions, it is important not to let me or any the researcher define your experience for you. You made it through your experiences because you are strong and you have drawn upon your unique skills to pull you through

The aliens have not given us enough information inn order for us to understand everything that is going on To figure this out, we are going to have to be patient with one another and continue contributing our pieces to the puzzle'.

Was It a UFO or a Military Craft???

I was traveling west on I65 at about 7:30 PM on Saturday, August 1, 1998, with my son, Mikey, age 11. We were returning to our home in Lexington, KY, after spending a week vacationing in Virginal. The skies were clear and and still sunny, with only a few wispy, scattered clouds. We were approximately 20 miles east of Huntington, West Virginia, when my son asked me, "Dad, what's a line?" He said he was referring to an object in the sky, not the trail of a jet. My son is an avid watcher of "Wings" and "Weekday Wings", and can recognize most antique as well as modern commercial and military aircraft, including the Stealth bomber, the Aurora, etc. Looking in the direction he indicated (initially to the south and slightly east of us), I too observed the 'line'. It was a cylinder, apparently metallic because it reflected the sunlight (although it may have been self-illuminated as well), traveling at an indeterminate speed, and at an unknown distance from us. Its size was also impossible to judge.

I asked my son to grab the binoculars, which were somewhere in the back seat with assorted camping gear, souvenirs, etc. He immediately found them, then reported that the 'line' really had no wings, windows, exhaust "trail" lights, insignia, or other features associated with conventional aircraft. The object was like a flying dowel.

This is a dangerous stretch of I64 which has a speed limit of 70, lacks shoulders, and is in a mountainous area; I did not want to risk our lives looking at a UFO, so I didn't pull over. I occasionally observed- it to my left; it was slowly I pulling ahead' of us. My son kept watching through the binoculars.

Finally my son exclaimed that a military jet was closing in on the object. I caught a glimpse of it coming up from behind and to my left. We had been in Virginia Beach, and had awoken every morning to the sounds of early flights from Norfolk. I suggested that this plane had come from Norfolk. Within minutes a second military jet appeared, but from the opposite direction., Ohio is across the river from Huntington, and I told Mikey that Wright-Patterson had picked up the object on its radar, too. An amazing and unforgettable event now took place. The object, nearly in front of our car and slightly to the left, suddenly became extremely bright, somewhat like a flare. It then slowly dimmed to the point where it disappeared entirely! The object apparently remained stationary while this extraordinary event took place.

The jet from the east now veered off to the south (and back east? I lost sight of it), while the jet from Ohio continued to the east. We were trying to get another glimpse of the object, but it never reappeared.

The entire observation lasted 15-20 minutes. My son watched the object continuously, I only sporadically, but we both viewed the brightening and gradual disappearance of the object in its entirety.

I am a high school business teacher, with a BBA in Finance, MBA in International Business, and MSE, all from the University of Kentucky, in Lexington.

I swear that the events I have described are true, and occurred exactly as recorded -here. This was a truly astonishing, profound experience.

P.S. The jets never got very close to the object but it seemed to be substantially (several times) longer than the jets. I realize this is only meaningful if the jets and the object were at relatively equal distances from us.

KENTUCKY MUFON THEIR STAR IS RISING

By: Walt Andrus

Kentucky State Director, Scott Voight has been inviting different Ufologist to write an article for the monthly Kentucky MUFON Newsletter to obtain greater national and international scope. It is my pleasure to cooperate in the following manner by describing how Kentucky has taken its place on the more progressive and active state organizations.

Briefly, the Mutual UFO Network (MUFON) was organized on Mar 31, 1969 in Quincy, Illinois as the Midwest UFO Network, composed of about a dozen Midwest states on both sides of the Mississippi River. Some of the original founders such as John F. Schuessler, serve in leadership roles on the MUFON Board of Directors. Ted Phillips, one of the speakers at Kentucky's first UFO Conference, was also a founding member. Our first Midwest UFO Network newsletter originated with the September 1968 issue off SKYLOOK edited by Mrs. Norma Short with in Stover, Missouri. Dwight Connelly, the present editor, followed Mrs. Short with a magazine format, replacing the original mimeograph rendition. Other editors served after Mr. Connelly's first term, such as William "Bill" Hauck, Robert "Bob" Pratt, Richard H. Hall and Dennis Stacy. The monthly magazine changed its name to the MUFON UFO Journal in 1976 too better reflect our work.

With MUFON's grass roots structure, whereby the majority of the leadership is at the state, provincial, and foreign national levels, MUFON is now playing a key role in this growth by their enthusiastic attitude. The Mutual UFO Network (MUFON) is a Texas nonprofit corporation and an I.R.S. tax exempt organization under Section 501 (c)(3) and Section 501(a)(2) of the Internal Revenue Code

How does Kentucky MUFON fit into the "Big Picture"?

Scott Voight has literally "taken the bull by the horns" and transformed Kentucky MUFON into a viable state organization that has needed strong leadership for many years. He has appointed S. Region of Kentucky, Kathy Grimes and Dr. Robert Lodder of University of Kentucky in Lexington, Kentucky to become Assistant State Directors, plus numerous State Section Directors throughout the state to assist him. The Kentucky MUFON Newsletter was founded with the July/August 1998 edition edited by Becky Sanders . Mr. Voight has been responsible for assembling a KY MUFON Archive Library of UFO books and videotapes. One of their first major accomplishments was UFO Conference at the University of Kentucky in Lexington on August 29, 1998 with a second planned for Bowling Green in 1999. An abductee support group meets in Elizabethtown, KY on regular basis. They also have a web site at: www.geocities.com/~kentuckymufon. When you consider all of their accomplishments within one year, they present a challenge to other more mature states. They intentionally named their first UFO Conference "The Kentucky UFO Collective" so as to include all UFO groups in the state and adjoining states.

In the November 1998 issue of the MUFON UFO JOURNAL, I wrote an editorial emphasizing the need for unification in the UFO field, not numerous splinter groups, who seem to come and go. A good example of unification has been demonstrated very successfully by the formation of the UFO Research Coalition composed of the Center for UFO Studies (CUFOS), the Fund for UFO Research (FUFOR), and the Mutual UFO Network (MUFON). Representatives of each organization have been meeting since 1994 too tackle difficult but essential projects to advance the scientific study of UFOs. Supporting all three organization is form of unification that presently exists and is highly recommended. Individual ufologists nationwide are encouraged and invited to join either MUFON or CHUFFS or both, so their particular interest and research in ufology can be directed and combined with that of their colleagues.

No single person is going to solve the UFO enigma. It will be done through an organized and combined effort backed by financial resources. We have made significant progress during the past thirty years however, we have not archived our ultimate goals and objective the State of Kentucky into a smooth functioning and organized group under the leadership of Scott Voight, who has earned your support.

Come socializes with some of the biggest names in UFO history. Stanton Friedman, John Carpenter, Dr. Roger Scott, Ted Philips all under the same roof, and the members of MUFON who are working the Conference.

On April 23, 1999 at approximately 8:00 PM We will be Socializing and getting to know one other at the restaurant and bar for those who wish to have a dinner and a drink. Don't miss out on change to personally meet and pick there brains of the men in the field of UFO. They very seldom come to this part of the country this could be change of a life time you don't want to miss out! We'll be there we hope you will be there too. Always hoping too meet new people on our journey for the truth. Conference 9.00 am April 24, 1999. If you haven't got your ticket by the 24th they will be $25.00 at the door.
