

At year 7164 (1656) August 2 the moving star appeared in Tobolsk. It was standing at south and jump up from its place and run on the sky to the west and standing here a little with the big brilliance, and then run on the sky [again], and such runnings from south via west was six times. And go out. And this was a ruinous omen and mean that [people will] run away from the evil of war.
