SELECT LIST OF PUBLICATIONS OF THE NATIONAL ARCHIVES AND RECORDS SERVICE

This list includes publications of the National Archives and Records Service that have not been superseded or discontinued. Some gaps, therefore, appear in lists of publications arranged by numerical series. A list of all previous publications through 1968 is available in Microfilm Publication M248.

Items in this list currently out of print are identified by an asterisk. Electrostatic copies of out-of-print items may be obtained at a cost of $0.15 per page if reproduced in the research room or $0.20 per page by mail, with a minimum charge of $2. Requests for copies of out-of-print items should be addressed to the Program Coordination Staff (NNB).

All other requests for publications and information should be addressed to the Publications Sales Branch (NEPS), General Services Administration, Washington, DC 20408

A limited supply of unpriced publications in print is available for single copy distribution to institutions and to scholars. Additional copies of these publications may be obtained from NEPS for a fee. Priced items, excluding microfilm publications and items otherwise noted, may be purchased from the Superintendent of Documents, Government Printing Office, Washington, DC 20402.

Documents From America's Past

The National Archives is a treasure house of historical documents. It contains the records created by the Federal Government in the course of guiding the Nation for nearly two centuries. Because these documents are part of the heritage of the American people, it is the goal of the National Archives not only to preserve them but to make them readily available. Therefore, printed facsimiles have been made of many of the most important documents. Others have been reproduced as illustrations in brief narrative histories. These publications are described in this catalog, with an order blank and instructions for ordering on the last page. Available from NEPS.

Prologue

Prologue, the quarterly journal of the National Archives, has published articles on topics of American history and culture since 1969. Besides its articles and full-color illustrations, it provides timely information about NARS' conferences, publications, and accessions. Prologue has the latest information on declassified records as well. Single copy (current issues only), $2.50. Subscription prices: 1 year, $8; 2 years, $15; 3 years, $20. Available from NEPS.

Administration
Washington, DC 20408

The National Archives and Records Service (NARS) is the official depository for records of military personnel separated from the U.S. Air Force, Army, Coast Guard, Marine Corps, and Navy. The records are housed in three locations: the National Archives Building, Washington, D.C.; the Washington National Records Center (WNRC), Suitland, Md.; and the National Personnel Records Center, St. Louis, Mo. Listed below are some of the military service records that are in the holdings maintained at each of these locations. On subsequent pages are pertinent details about the records available.

NATIONAL ARCHIVES BUILDING

Records relating to:

Volunteers

Chiefly military service performed by persons serving during an emergency and whose service was considered to be in the Federal interest, during the period 1775 through 1902.

U.S. Regular Army

Regular Army enlisted personnel who served from 1789 through October 31, 1912, and officers who served from 1789 through June 30, 1917.

U.S. Navy

Enlisted personnel who served from 1798 through December 31, 1885, and officers who served from 1798 through December 31, 1902.

U.S. Marine Corps

Enlisted personnel and officers who served from 1789 through December 31, 1895.

U.S. Coast Guard

Persons who served in predecessor agencies to the U.S. Coast Guard; i.e., the Revenue Cutter Service (Revenue Marine), the Life-Saving Service, and the Lighthouse Service, 1791-1919. (See also the following listing of records in the National Personnel Records Center.)

Confederate States

Records relating to persons who rendered military service for the Confederate States government in its armed forces from 1861 through 1865.

Veterans Records

Claims files for pensions based on Federal military service; 1775-1916, and bounty land warrant application files relating to claims based on wartime service, 1775-1855.

NATIONAL PERSONNEL RECORDS CENTER

Records relating to:

U.S. Army

Officers separated after June 30, 1917, and enlisted personnel separated after October 31, 1912.

U.S. Air Force

Officers and enlisted personnel separated after September 1947 (date of establishment of Department of the Air Force).

U.S. Navy and Marine Corps

Naval officers separated after 1902, naval enlisted personnel separated after 1885, and Marine Corps officers and enlisted personnel separated after 1895.

difficult to identify his record. There are usually many servicemen of the same or nearly the same name, and the name under which a serviceman was listed may differ from the name by which he was known to members of his family.

NARS can only make identifications that are relatively easy to establish. It cannot undertake extensive research or lengthy evaluation of conflicting or uncertain evidence in the records. If such research or evaluation is necessary, it will offer to furnish reproductions of all the records.

In attempting to identify a serviceman when the information supplied is not sufficient, the NARS staff will try to match initials and spelling of the surname given in a standard list of variant spellings. If the staff is able to reduce the possibilities to a few individual records, it will attempt identification by comparing the records with any information the inquirer supplies that is likely to be useful for the purpose. If the serviceman's identity seems obvious or probable, NARS will furnish a photocopy of the record it thinks is the correct one.

Inquirers who are unable to supply information necessary for NARS to make an effective search of the records may examine or hire someone to examine files in the research rooms of the National Archives Building. Names of persons who do research for a fee can be obtained from the Board for Certification of Genealogists, 1307 New Hampshire Ave., NW., Washington, DC 20036.

Some of the information needed to order copies may be found in Index to Revolutionary War Pension Applications, revised and published in 1966 by the National Genealogical Society; in Report From the Secretary of War in Relation to the Pension Establishment of the United States, published in three volumes in 1835 as Senate Document 514, 23d Congress, 1st session; and in List of Pensioners on the Roll January 1, 1883, published in five volumes in 1883 as Senate Executive Document 84, 47th Congress, 2d session. These publications are available in most large public libraries and in research libraries.

HOW TO ORDER COPIES OF UNRESTRICTED RECORDS

Photocopies of unrestricted original documents are available for a fee. NARS will conduct a search for the documents if, in addition to the full name of the serviceman, the war in which he served, and the State from which he entered service, an inquirer can supply other identifying information. (If the request concerns a Navy enlisted man, the name of at least one vessel on which he served, with approximate dates, must be given and, if possible, his place of enlistment.)

Requests for copies of records housed in the National Archives Building should be submitted on GSA Form 6751, Order for Copies—Veterans Records, which will be furnished free on request. The form should be filled out according to the instructions and with as much information as possible and returned to: Military Service Records (NNCC), National Archives and Records Service (GSA), Washington, DC 20408. The form also explains the procedure for making requests.

Requests for records housed at the National Personnel Records Center should be made on Standard Form 180, Request Pertaining to Military Personnel Records, and sent to National Personnel Records Center (MPRC), GSA, 9700 Page Blvd., St. Louis, MO 63132.

If a file is found for the veteran in question, NARS will supply photocopies of documents that provide pertinent information about the veteran and his family. The inquirer will be billed for copies provided. The NARS staff is not permitted to read all documents in a file or to answer specific questions about them; however, if the inquirer wishes to have photocopies of all the papers in a file, they will be furnished for a moderate additional cost.

If a name supplied by an inquirer is not that under which the serviceman was carried on the rolls or if the unit in which he served is not known or is given incorrectly, the NARS staff may find it

U.S. Coast Guard

Officers separated after 1928 and enlisted personnel separated after 1914; civilian employees of predecessor agencies (Revenue Cutter Service, Life-Saving Service, and Lighthouse Service) of the U.S. Coast Guard, 1864-1919.

Records Relating to Volunteer Soldiers

Records of volunteer soldiers who fought in various wars chiefly in the Federal Government's interest from the Revolutionary War through the Philippine Insurrection, 1775-1902, so-called compiled military service records, are in the National Archives Building.

A compiled military service record consists of a card or cards on which is recorded information about a soldier that was collected from muster rolls, returns, hospital registers, prison records, and other records. Cards for each war are arranged by State, thereunder by military unit, and thereunder alphabetically by surname. The War Department program for preparation of the compiled service records was begun some years after the Civil War to permit more rapid and efficient checking of military and medical records in connection with claims for pensions and other veterans benefits.

Compiled military service records for the Revolutionary War period are fragmentary because many of the original records were lost in a fire that occurred November 8, 1800, in offices the Secretary of War occupied. Other records were lost or destroyed in 1814 when Government buildings in Washington were ransacked and burned by the British Army.

The compiled military service record of each volunteer soldier is filed with similar records for other soldiers who fought in the same war and regiment or other unit. In addition to abstracts of information about the soldier from original rolls, returns, registers, or other records, the record sometimes contains, particularly for later wars, one or more original documents relating to the soldier. The records usually show a soldier's presence or absence on certain dates. Typically, they also show the soldier's rank, military organization, and term of service; sometimes they also show age, place of enlistment, and place of birth. Although they are of value for proving military service, they usually contain little genealogical information.

Many of the original records from which compiled service records were made are among NARS holdings, but there is rarely need to examine them because of the care and thoroughness with which the information they contain was copied.

It should be noted that, although the War Department made every effort to assemble available official information, many compiled service records are not complete. Full records of the participation of a given unit may not have been available. Also, a soldier may have served in a State militia unit that was never called into the service of the Continental, Federal, or Confederate States governments. Records of such service, if available, are most likely to be in State archives or in the custody of the State adjutant general.

Records Relating to Regular Army Service

Records relating to service in the U.S. Regular Army by officers, 1789-1917, and enlisted men, 1789-1912, during peace and war are in the National Archives Building.

Records relating to officers serving in the Regular Army are scattered among many files and vary in content so much that it is not practical to describe them in detail here. An officer's service is likely to be documented in orders, muster rolls, returns of posts and military units, station books, War Department correspondence relating to personnel, and medical and other records. Records relating to service of Regular Army enlisted men include registers of enlistments, muster rolls of available for public examination or copies provided, information from them may be furnished to searchers on request.

RESTRICTIONS ON RECORDS IN THE NATIONAL PERSONNEL RECORDS CENTER

Military personnel files at the National Personnel Records Center in St. Louis, Mo., are subject to the same conditions of use as are comparable records in the National Archives Building in Washington, D.C.

Generally, other than requests from official sources, only those from members of veterans' immediate families will be honored, and then only for a limited number of applicants' relatives, such as the father, grandfather(s), brother(s), and uncle(s). If the person whose records are requested is living, his written consent is required before any information may be supplied. The information furnished is usually limited to complete name and dates of service, but, if needed to assure identification of the person or if specifically requested, such information as date and place of birth, and name of father, mother, and wife is furnished. Inquiries about military personnel should be submitted on Standard Form 180, Request Pertaining to Military Personnel Records (available from the Center), to National Personnel Records Center (MPRC), GSA, 9700 Page Blvd., St. Louis, MO 63132.

Records relating to Federal employment of civilians are subject to U.S. Civil Service Commission regulations governing release of information from personnel records under the Public Information Act of 1966. Information furnished is limited to name, position titles, grades, salaries, and duty stations. An inquiry about the employment record of a civilian should contain as much identification as possible and should be addressed to Civilian Personnel Records (NCPC), GSA, 111 Winnebago St., St. Louis, MO 63118.

files relate to claims based on wartime service between 1775 and March 3, 1855.

The documents in a bounty land warrant application file are similar to those in a pension file. They include the application of the claimant, who may have been a veteran or a veteran's widow or heirs, affidavits attesting to service, and the jacket on which action taken on the claim is noted. Since Congress enacted many laws relating to bounty land, more than one application may be found in a file. Many of the application files relating to Revolutionary War and War of 1812 service have been combined with pension files.

Information in the Records

Both pension and bounty land warrant application files usually show name, rank, and military unit of the veteran and period of his service. If a veteran applied, the file usually shows his age or date of birth and place of residence at the time he applied, and sometimes his place of death. If his widow applied, the file shows her age and place of residence, her maiden name, the date and place of their marriage, and the date and place of his birth. When application was made on behalf of minor children or by heirs of the veteran, their names and sometimes their ages or dates of birth are shown.

RESTRICTIONS ON RECORDS IN THE NATIONAL ARCHIVES BUILDING AND IN THE WASHINGTON NATIONAL RECORDS CENTER

Records relating to military service ended more than 75 years ago are available for public examination, and copies can be provided. Records of military personnel who served within the last 75 years, however, are subject to restrictions imposed by the military under the Public Information Act of 1966. Although such records cannot be made regular units, and medical and other records. Registers of enlistments show for each man his name, age, place of birth, date and place of enlistment, occupation at enlistment, regiment and company, physical description, and date and reason for discharge, or, where applicable, date of death or date of desertion and sometimes of apprehension or return after desertion. The information in these diverse and scattered sources was never collected and organized into compiled service records as was done for volunteer soldiers.

Personnel records of officers separated from service after June 30, 1917, and of enlisted personnel separated after October 31, 1912, are in the National Personnel Records Center in St. Louis, Mo. For the most part, these are individual files in which significant papers pertaining to service were maintained in a single jacket or folder generally known as the service record or 201 file. Officers' personnel records include those for separated Regular Army officers and active duty service of National Guard officers; for Reserve officers, if deceased; for nurses, contract surgeons, field clerks, and Public Health Service officers who were commissioned in the U.S. Army; and for officers of the Philippine Scouts. Enlisted men's records include those of members of the Specialist Corps, Russian Railway Corps, Student Army Training Corps, Philippine Scouts, former members of the National Guard, and reservists, if deceased. The clear-cut distinction between regular and nonregular service that characterizes records of the pre-1917 period does not persist thereafter.

Records Relating to Naval and Marine Corps Service

In the National Archives Building there are records relating to service in the American Navy and Marine Corps in the Revolutionary War, 1775-83; in the U.S. Navy—officers, 1798-1902, and enlisted men, 1798-1885; and in the U.S. Marine Corps, 1798-1895.

Naval and marine service records of the Revolutionary War period are fragmentary, including only such information as the serviceman's name and rank, the name of the vessel on which he served, and the dates of his service or the dates he was paid. See also Records Relating to Volunteer Soldiers, p. 3.

Records relating to the service of commissioned officers in the Navy after the Revolution but before 1846 give each officer's name, rank, State of birth, sometimes age or date of birth, State of residence, and dates of service. Records for 1846 and later contain the above information and occasionally give the date and place of an officer's death in service or the date of his retirement.

Records relating to a Navy enlisted man's service before 1846 usually give only his name and rating, the names of the vessels on which he served, and the dates of his service. Later records also give the enlisted man's age and place of birth and occasionally place of enlistment.

Records of commissioned officers in the Marine Corps usually show each officer's name and rank and the date of his appointment or acceptance of a commission. They may also give his age and residence. Service records for enlisted marines usually show the man's name and age, and the date, place, and term of enlistment.

In the National Personnel Records Center in St. Louis, Mo., are individual personnel records (jackets) of Navy commissioned officers separated after 1902, Navy enlisted personnel separated after 1885, and Marine Corps officers and enlisted personnel separated after 1895.

Records Relating to Air Force Service

In the National Personnel Records Center, St. Louis, Mo., are military personnel files and related records for officer and enlisted personnel of the Air Force, Air Force Reserve, and Air National Guard separated since September 1947, the date the U.S. Air Force was established. Service in exist, however, and information from them has been summarized on cards that are filed with Revolutionary War pension and bounty land warrant application files.

A typical pension file contains the application of the claimant, documents submitted as evidence of identity and service, and records of action taken on the claim. The claimant may have been a veteran or his widow, minor children, or other dependent. Since a claimant could have applied for a pension under several different acts, a pension file may contain more than one application from a claimant. It may also contain applications from several claimants because applications for pensions based on the service of one serviceman for a certain period were usually filed together. Documents submitted in support of some pension claims include affidavits attesting to service, pages from family bibles, and copies of records of birth, marriage, and death. For service in the Civil War and later, a pension file may also include Bureau of Pensions questionnaires sent out in 1898 and 1915, which contain genealogical information.

Pensions based on military service to the Confederate States of America were authorized by some Southern States but not by the Federal Government until 1959. Inquiries about State pensions should be addressed to the State archives at the capital of the veteran's State of residence after the war.

Bounty Land Warrant Application Files

In 1776 and later, the Continental Congress provided for granting public land to those who remained in the armed forces until the end of the war or until discharged by the Congress and to dependents of those killed. Laws passed between 1796 and 1855 also authorized granting warrants for land to those who had served in the Revolutionary War, the War of 1812, Indian wars, and the war with Mexico. Bounty land warrant application to all who were disabled in the Revolutionary War, to those who continued in service to the end of the war, and to widows or orphans of officers killed in the war. Compensation could be in money or land, or both. Because the Continental Congress lacked funds, it relied on the States to provide compensation; some States also provided benefits independently of the Congress.

Pension Files

The First Congress under the Constitution approved an act making the United States responsible for payment of disability pensions that had been granted by States for service in the Revolutionary War. Acts passed during the next three decades limited benefits to those disabled in service and to dependents of those killed in service or who died as a result of service. In 1818, however, Congress provided that every person who had served in the Revolutionary War for 9 months or until the end of the war and who was "in need of assistance from his country for support" should be pensioned. Later legislation removed the requirement of need.

Following the precedent set for Revolutionary War veterans, Congress has authorized pensions for those who served in succeeding wars, including the Indian wars, and in peacetime. Pensions for peacetime service have been limited to veterans who suffered service-connected disabilities or to dependents of men who died as a result of service. The records of pensions granted or applied for under many of these laws are in the National Archives Building. The pension files relate to claims based on service in the Army, Navy, or Marine Corps between 1775 and 1916.

Applications that the Secretary of War received through November 8, 1800, together with supporting papers, apparently were destroyed in the War Department fire of that date and in the fire of 1814. A few records relating to early claims still predecessor organizations (Army Air Forces, Army Air Corps, and Army Air Service) is also documented in the personnel files.

Records Relating to Coast Guard Service

The U.S. Coast Guard was created by an act of January 28, 1915, which consolidated the former Revenue Cutter and Life-Saving Services of the Department of the Treasury. The Bureau of Lighthouses of the Department of Commerce became part of the Coast Guard on July 1, 1939.

In the National Archives Building are record books, indexed by name of Revenue Cutter Service officers, 1791-1919, that sometimes show date and place of birth and death, but always show date of appointment, promotions, special duty assignments, and names of vessels served on. There are also applications for appointments and commissions as officers or cadets, ca. 1833-90, copies of officers' commissions, 1791-1909, and muster rolls and payrolls (muster rolls after 1871) of revenue cutters, 1832-1914. The muster rolls show each crewmember's name, rating, number of days served during the reported month, transfers, and often termination of service. For enlisted men muster rolls usually also show date and place of enlistment, place of birth, age, and physical description.

Records relating to the service of Coast Guard officers, 1890-1929, in WNRC, include records of former Revenue Cutter Service officers whose terms of service extended beyond 1915.

Inspectors and engineers of the Lighthouse Service districts were officers of the Army and Navy detailed from their respective services; their records will be found under the branch they served in. All other employees of the Lighthouse Service and inspectors, superintendents, keepers, and other employees of the Life-Saving Service were civilians. Requests for copies of records housed in WNRC should be made by letter and sent to the General Archives Division, WNRC, Washington, DC 20409.

Records relating to the service of civilians formerly employed by the Revenue Cutter Service, Life-Saving Service, and Lighthouse Service, some dating back to 1864 but mostly dating from 1900, are on file at the National Personnel Records Center. Information cannot be furnished on the basis of a name alone. Other identifying data, such as date, place, and type of service, should be provided. Also in the National Personnel Records Center are personnel records of Coast Guard officers separated since 1928 and enlisted personnel separated after 1914.

Records Relating to Confederate Service

Compiled service records for many but not all of the men who served in the Confederate States army are in the National Archives Building. They contain virtually no genealogical information, but they are of value for proving military service. Compiled Confederate military service records are similar to those previously described relating to volunteer soldiers.

As the Confederate government evacuated Richmond in April 1865, the central military records of the Confederate army were taken to Charlotte, N.C., by the adjutant and inspector general, who then transferred them to the Union commander. The records were taken to Washington, where, along with other Confederate records captured by the Union Army, they were preserved by the War Department. In 1903 the Secretary of War persuaded the Governors of most Southern States to lend the War Department Confederate military personnel records in the possession of the States so that they could be copied.

The compiled military service record of a Confederate soldier consists of one or more card abstracts and sometimes one or more original documents. Each card abstract copies an entry in original records, such as Confederate muster rolls, returns, and descriptive rolls and Union prison and parole records. The card abstracts in the jacket of any soldier, if the original record of his service was complete, may serve to trace that service from beginning to end, but they normally do little more than tell where he was at a given time. The only information of genealogical interest they are likely to give is his age and place of enlistment.

Many of the original records from which compiled service records were made are among NARS holdings, but there is rarely need to examine them because of the care and thoroughness with which the information they contain was copied.

A soldier may have served in a State militia unit that was never mustered into Confederate service. Records of service in such units, if they exist, are likely to be in the archives of the State or in custody of the State adjutant general. Many Southern States have records relating to payment of State benefits to Confederate veterans.

In the National Archives Building there are records for some persons who served in the Confederate Navy and Marine Corps, 1861-65. Confederate naval and marine service records give the serviceman's name and rank and sometimes his station. If he was imprisoned, a record may give the date of his capture, place of his imprisonment, and date of his parole.

Records Relating to Veterans Who Applied for Pensions or Bounty Land Warrants

From the earliest days of English settlement in America, the Colonies gave financial aid to persons disabled in military service and to dependents of persons killed in service. After the Colonies declared their independence, the Continental Congress passed resolutions promising compensation

To : The Record

The National Archives has received many requests for documentation and information about "Project MJ-12". Many of the inquiries concern a memorandum from Robert Cutler to General Nathan Twining, dated July 14, 1954. This particular document poses problems for the following reasons:

1. The document was located in Record Group 341, entry 267. The series is filed by a Top Secret register number. This document does not bear such a number.

2. The document is filed in the folder T4-1846. There are no other documents in the folder regarding "NSC/MJ-12".

3. The Military Reference Branch (Edward Reese) has conducted a search in the records of the Secretary of Defense, the Joint Chiefs of Staff, Headquarters US Air Force, and in other related files. No further information has been found on this subject.

4. Inquiries to the US Air Force, the Joint Chiefs of Staff, and the National Security Council failed to produce further information.

5. The Acting Director of the Freedom of Information Office of the National Security Council informed us that "Top Secret Restricted Information" is a marking which did not come into use at the National Security Council until the Nixon Administration. The Eisenhower Presidential Library also confirms that this particular marking was not used during the Eisenhower Administration.

6. The document in question does not bear an official government letterhead or watermark. The NARA conservation specialist (Mary Ritzenthaler) examined the paper and determined it was a ribbon copy prepared on "dictation onionskin". The Eisenhower Library has examined its collection of the Cutler papers. All documents created by Mr. Cutler while he served on the NSC staff have an eagle watermark in the onionskin carbon paper. Most documents sent out by the NSC were prepared on White House letterhead paper. For the brief period when Mr. Cutler left the NSC, his carbon copies were prepared on "prestige onionskin".

7. The Judicial, Fiscal, and Social Branch searched the Official Meeting Minute Files of the National Security Council and found no record of a NSC meeting on July 16, 1954. A search of all NSC Meeting Minutes for July 1954 found no mention of MJ-12 nor Majestic.

8. The Judicial, Fiscal, and Social Branch (Mary Ronan) searched the indices of the NSC records and found no listing for: MJ-12, Majestic, unidentified flying objects, UFO, flying saucers, or flying discs.

9. The Judicial, Fiscal, and Social Branch (Mary Ronan) found a memo in a folder titled "Special Meeting July 16, 1954" which indicated that NSC members would be called to a civil defense exercise on July 16, 1954.

10. The Eisenhower Library states, in a letter to NNMR, dated July 16, 1987:

"President Eisenhower's Appointment Books contain no entry for a special meeting on July 16, 1954 which might have included a briefing on MJ-12. Even when the President had 'off the record' meetings, the Appointment Books contain entries indicating the time of the meeting and the participants..."

The Declassification Office of the National Security Council has informed us that it has no record of any declassification action having been taken on this memorandum or any other documents on this alleged project...

Robert Cutler, at the direction of President Eisenhower, was visiting overseas military installations on the day he supposedly issued this memorandum --- July 14, 1954. The Administration Series in Eisenhower's Papers as President contains Cutler's memorandum and report to the President upon his return from the trip. The memorandum is dated July 20, 1954 and refers to Cutler's visits to installations in Europe and North Africa between July 3 and 15. Also, within the NSC Staff Papers is a memorandum dated July 3, 1954, from Cutler to his two subordinates, James S. Lay and J. Patrick Coyne, explaining how they should handle NSC administrative matters during his absence; one would assume that if the memorandum to Twining were genuine, Lay or Coyne would have signed it."

The NARA conservation specialist (Mary Ritzenthaler) examined the paper and determined it was a ribbon copy prepared on "dictation onionskin." The Eisenhower Library has examined a representative sample of the documents in its collection of the Cutler papers. All documents in the sample created by Mr. Cutler while he served on the NSC staff have an eagle watermark in the bond paper. The onionskin carbon copies have either an eagle watermark or no water mark at all. Most documents sent out by the NSC were prepared on White House letterhead paper. Dear Mr. Sider:

The NSC/MJ-12 memorandum was found by a researcher while examining the records of the Dissemination Branch of the Office of the Director of Intelligence, Headquarters United States Air Force. These records were retired to the National Archives by Headquarters United States Air Force. There is no way to determine when this memorandum was filled. The series in which this document was found (Entry 267) totals approximately 30,000 pages. There is no index to the series. Research in this series requires one to examine all 150 boxes of this entry. The entire series was reviewed in 1985, for declassification, by the United States Air Force.

The stamp shown on the lower right hand corner is our declassification stamp. The authority line shows the declassification authority (NND 857013). NND is the symbol for our Declassification Division, the first two numbers (85) indicates the fiscal year when this series was reviewed and declassified. The initials ER/TH indicate that Edward Reese/Terri Hammett, of this office, placed the stamp on the document showing the declassification authority. The date, 1/12/87 indicates when we transferred the original declassification authority to the reproduced copy. The stamp in the lower left hand side indicates the copy was made in the National Archives and identifies the document as part of Record Group 341 (Records of the Headquarters U.S. Air Force).

The National Archives does not authenticate documents or the information contained in a document.

Sincerely,

Dear Bill,

I hope that you have received my last sendings, and in particular my 4967 with the cheque forwarded via my bank.

If you remember my letter to Barry GREENWOOD, you must recall that I had claimed that all the allegations of Barry against the MJ-12 document authenticity were worthless except the ones relative to the so-called "memo-Cutler".

Enclosed, you will find the copy of a letter received to-day from Mr Edward J. REESE, National Archives, Washington, D.C., showing that in spite of all the statements of Barry GREENWOOD, all the handlings and stamps of this "memo" were authored by Mr. E. J. REESE and his colleague Terri HAMMETT. Apparently, the contents of this letter is in complete opposition of all the statements done these last months claiming that this document would be a fake. I am very surprised, because up to now, I was entirely convinced that this "memo-Cutler" was an undeniable put-up job.

Please note that in my request of information sent to Mr. E. J. REESE, I had asked to this man whether or not this "memo-Cutler" was a hoax. Apparently, so far as I can judge according the answer of Mr. REESE, this "memo-Cutler" WOULD NOT BE the so-called fake alleged by some American ufologists. I repeat: WOULD NOT BE...until proof to the contrary !

I seize this opportunity to inform you that I have edited a 380 pages study (in French) about the famous 1897 Airship wave in USA. If you are interested by my modest work, please advise me and I will forward an issue to your address.

By best wishes for the new year; Yours sincerely,

 Jean Sider

CARD CATALOGS IN THE MOTION PICTURE, SOUND
AND VIDEO BRANCH (NNSM), NATIONAL ARCHIVES

Motion Pictures

- 1) MAIN CATALOG: Entries describe both government and commercially produced newsreels, information and documentary films covering a wide range of subjects. Earliest film dates from 1894, but material generally covers the period from 1915 through the early 1970's. Cards are arranged numerically by Record Group (RG) with bulk of catalog made up of subject and title entries. Subject headings loosely based on Library of Congress scheme.
- 2) FORD FILM COLLECTION CATALOG: Both edited and unedited material covering broad range of "Americana subjects", with particular emphasis on the development of the automobile and its impact on American life. Covers the period, 1914-1956. Card index of key words and phrases refers to scene descriptions contained in separate notebooks. Ford Film Guide available which gives overview of the collection, but does not always correspond with index. Screening prints available on most subjects.
- 3) ARMY AIR FORCE COMBAT SUBJECTS/SIGNAL CORPS ARMY DEPOSITORY FILM (RG 18CS/111 ADC) CATALOG: Unedited and camera record footage covering all theaters of military activity during World War II, occupation of Germany and Japan, war crime trials and Korean War. Cards arranged numerically and by subject, with headings loosely based on Library of Congress scheme. 35mm b&w prints available on all 18CS subjects and on the 111 ADC series.
- 4) UNIVERSAL NEWSREEL CATALOG (RG 200 UN): Edited stories as well as outtakes giving world-wide coverage for the period, 1929-1967. Cards arranged in 13 broad categories, each of which is subdivided more specifically. General Information Guide available which gives explanation of card format and summary of the 13 categories. Summary sheets, arranged chronologically, also available in notebooks. Reference copies of entire collection of edited stories as well as some outtakes available on videotape.
- 5) U.S. AIR FORCE MISCELLANEOUS SERIES: Numerical cards only, (no subject index) for film covering early aviation and air force activities for the period 1900 through the early 1960's. B&w prints available on most subjects.
- 6) U.S. AIR FORCE -- (VARIOUS SERIES): Numerical cards only for a variety of Air Force series, including News Reviews, News Releases and film relating to International Geophysical Year. In addition, Air Force produced catalogs to Strategic Bombing Survey film relating to Hiroshima and Nagasaki, as well as footage of "Thunderbirds" stunt flying.
- 7) ARMY AIR FORCES SPECIAL FILM PROJECT (18 SFP) CATALOG: Outtakes from the Army Air Forces production, "Thunderbolts" covering activities of the 12th AAF in Europe, June 1944 to April 1945. Numerical and subject arrangement. 16mm color prints available on most subjects.
- 8) NAVY CATALOG (RG 428 NPC): Unedited and camera record footage covering Navy activities from World War II through 1965. Catalog, and many screening prints available.
- 9) ATOMIC ENERGY COMMISSION CATALOG (RG 326): Unedited film covering testing and research procedures at various AEC field installations from 1950-1953. Numerically arranged cards, as well as an AEC produced subject catalog.
- 10) MARINE CORPS CATALOG (RG 127): Unedited and camera record footage shot mostly by Marine Corps units from World War I to about 1960. Microfilm aperture card catalog available. Film contains both 16mm and 35mm in color and b&w.

Sound Recordings

- 1) MAIN CATALOG: Entries briefly describe both government and privately produced and donated sound recordings from a variety of sources consisting of radio broadcasts, speeches, interviews, actuality sound, documentaries, oral history, and public affairs information programs. Earliest sound recording is dated from 1896, but recordings generally cover the period from 1935 to the present. Title cards are arranged by Record Group (RG) number, and thereunder numerically. Title cards are cross referenced by name of speakers. Some title cards contain brief descriptions and are partially indexed in a separate subject card file. A complete set of shelf list folders arranged by RG number is available, since only part of the collections have been put on cards.
- 2) NATIONAL PUBLIC RADIO CATALOG (RG 200 NPR): A microfiche catalog indexing NPR news and public affairs broadcasts from 1971 to 1978. Indexes are by program title; series title; names of speakers; subject keyword; subject classification; and geographic location. Reference copies available on audio cassette.
- 3) MILO RYAN PHONOARCHIVE COLLECTION CATALOG (RG 200 MR): A collection of 5000 recordings of primarily CBS-KIRO radio broadcasts from 1931 to 1977 originally maintained at the University of Washington. Consists of news and public affairs programs, actualities, speeches, interviews, and wartime dramas. Provides a daily record for World War II of radio news programs. Card index is arranged by subject classification scheme used in the published finding aids History in Sound: A Descriptive Listing of KIRO-CBS Collection of Broadcasts of the WW II Years (1963) and History in Sound: Part II (1972). Cards contain brief content summaries later abstracted into the published books, however, the card catalog is more complete than the published guides. Most entries available on reel-to-reel reference tapes.
- 4) ABC RADIO COLLECTION CATALOG (RG 200 ABC): A title card catalog reproduced on 35mm microfilm prepared by NARS from the disc labels of a collection of 27,000 radio broadcast transcriptions of primarily news and public affairs programs from 1943 to 1971. Arranged first in chronological sequence by date of broadcast, and then by program series, program title, keyword, or person's last name in one alphabetical sequence.
- 5) NASA AUDIO COLLECTION CATALOG (RG 255): A card index to 1400 sound recordings dating from 1952 to 1975 consisting of astronaut voices, air-to-ground communications, public affairs programs, press conferences, speeches, and mission highlights. Catalog is arranged alphabetically by recording title and by subject format such as "Apollo" and "Gemini" etc. Some transcripts are available arranged by the T-number assigned to each recording.
- 6) SUPREME COURT ORAL ARGUMENT COLLECTION (RG 267): Approximately 5000 sound recordings of oral arguments presented before the U.S. Supreme Court for the October 1955 through the October 1977 terms (ending April 1978). Cases argued are indexed in published volumes of U.S. Reports available in the research room. A citation to a case by title, volume and page number of U.S. Reports is necessary to locate recordings which are retrieved by use of Court prepared finding aids that are arranged alphabetically by case name and thereunder chronologically by year of the term of the Court. Entire collection available on open reel reference tapes.

INTRODUCTION

Headquarters United States Air Force, also known as the Air Staff, was established by the National Security Act of 1947 under the Department of the Air Force. The Chief of Staff, who presides over the Air Staff, exercises command over the major air commands and is charged with the formulation, establishment, and execution of policies and plans to accomplish the Air Force mission. He is the principal adviser to the President, the Secretary of Defense, and the Secretary of the Air Force on the conduct of air warfare and is the principal military adviser to the Secretary of the Air Force on activities of the United States Air Force. He serves as a member of the Armed Forces Policy Council and the Joint Chiefs of Staff of the Department of Defense. The Air Staff is organized on a functional basis under Deputy Chiefs of Staff for Materiel, Operations, Plans and Programs, Personnel, and Development, and the Comptroller of the Air Force. The legal responsibility of the Chief of Staff is shared by the Vice Chief of Staff and is in turn delegated to the Deputy Chiefs of Staff and further to Directors under them. The Deputy Chiefs make command and policy decisions appropriate in their fields of responsibility and are a resource for the broad guidance and direction of the Directors. Directly associated with the Chief of Staff are the Assistant Chiefs of Staff, who advise and assist him in their particular specialty, and other staff officials or groups such as the Surgeon General, the Inspector General, the Judge Advocate General, and the Scientific Advisory Board. The Director of Administrative Services (formerly the Air Adjutant General) and the Secretary of the Air Staff, at the organizational level between the Chief of Staff and the Deputy Chiefs, assist in the management support of the Air Staff. The Air Staff, a collective agency, creates no single body of records. Its records are composed of the records of the various organizational elements of Headquarters United States Air Force, as well as some records of Headquarters Army Air Forces taken over by it.

The records covered in this inventory are designated as Record Group 341, Records of Headquarters United States Air Force. The volume of the records is 9787 cubic feet; their date coverage is 1939-55 generally.

Related records are in RG 339, Records of Headquarters Army Air Forces; RG 340, Records of the Office of the Secretary of the Air Force; and RG 18, Records of the Army Air Forces (to be retitled and revised to cover only the Office of the Chief of the Air Corps and predecessor agencies predating 1939). Records of the Assistant Secretary for Air, 1926-33, are in RG 107, Records of the Office of the Secretary of War, and in the central decimal files of The Adjutant General in RG 94, Records of The Adjutant General's Office. Records relating to the Army Air Forces during World War II are in RG 319 Records of the Army Staff, 1939-.

Dear Stan:

This is in further reference to our telephone conversations and your Freedom of Information request of March 22, 1985.

We still have not established the series to which the inventory copy you have pertains. I am enclosing an extract from the inventory to RG 341, concerning the Office of the Inspector General. As you can see, Entry 63 relates to personnel actions. This entry is currently being reviewed. I talked to Ms. Rowe in Air Force records management concerning the inventory to Entry 267. She informs me that it is marked "For Official Use Only," and would not be released under the Freedom of Information Act. In addition, she tells me that it only gives the first letter of each word in the subject. Hopefully, the completion of the security review of the series will be completed in several months, and on your next visit, you can go through the boxes.

Enclosed is a copy of the Air Intelligence Report you requested together with a memorandum concerning its declassification. We have deducted $12.70 from your account to cover the cost of the reproductions. Thanks for materials on the "Cosmic Watergate." I read them with interest.

Sincerely,

Robert Motony

Dear Ed:

RTThank you very much for your letter and enclosures of April 29 which arrived May 10. I anxiously await the completion of the USAF review of the 126 boxes of RG 341, Record Entry 267 and 63. I will be presenting a paper at the Mutual UFO Network Annual Symposium, in St. Louis, at the end of June and would surely like to include some good items from those files. I would come down to look.....

I am also very interested in reviewing the USAF OSI files, Top Secret Material. Of particular interest would be the records for 1947 and 1948. I understand that the records for 1947 might have been kept with those of the Counter Intelligence Corps. I spoke with Mr. Taylor per your suggestion and he indicated that there is quite a bit of material at Suitland. I also requested a copy of the one volume of history dealing with US Military bases CIC stuff in the period 1947 to a few years later. Haven't received it yet. Meanwhile could you pass on my request (If it helps consider it an FOIA request) to Bill Lewis. Of specific interest would be files of CIC HQ and CIC offices in New Mexico for 1947 June through December 1948... of if there is segregation just June 1947 through December 1947. I am most interested in TS material but would not be averse to S and Confidential items.. Is there a finders guide?

Concerning the OUO inventory of 267 held by Ms. Rowe, I would very much like to know if there is an item with a title similar to "Estimate of the Situation".... perhaps EOTS or E.O.T.S. written sometime in the period July through October 1948. It would have been TS.

I am enclosing a copy of an FBI memo from 1949 indicating that the Army and Air Force consider the subject of UFOs Top Secret.... this is one of my big reasons for wanting the TS material....

Gratefully,

Steven Friedman

PS Do you have any information about the records.. especially pre 1954 of the Office of Naval Intelligence, which as you undoubtedly noticed was apparently a co-author of the AIR-100-203-79?? STF

Dear Mr. Friedman:

The following responds to your latest letter dated April 2, 1985:

a. The reply provided to you in my January 30, 1985 letter was correct. This command does not now hold any documents on unidentified flying objects.

b. I did not mean to imply in any sense that the documents you cited in previous correspondence never existed. Such documents are not now held by any element of Naval Intelligence. They undoubtedly have been destroyed in routine file maintenance.

c. In reply to your current request for copies of CIRVIS reports in Navy files, please be advised that, as stated above, they are no longer held. I do not question the authenticity of the documents you forwarded, but there is no possible way in which we can retain documents originated by another Department of Defense element indefinitely.

I am sorry that I cannot be of more help to you, but we just do not hold the documents or indices to them which you have requested.

Dear Mr. Runyon:

Thank you very much for your letter (5720-Ser NIC-00Z/1524) of April 9. I suppose I can reluctantly accept items a,b,c. As a follow up I would like to ask the following questions:

1. Can you give me information as to where files for the period 1947-1954 have been retired and how I can get access to them and perhaps access to a listing of those Naval Intelligence files presuming that some have by now been reviewed for declassification
2. Is there some kind of Naval History Office which might have information for the period since 1947? I have visited the USAF history files at Maxwell AFB and there were a number of UFO file entries included in the histories of various USAF groups. Presumably this could be the case for various Navy groups.
3. Since our last exchange of letters I have obtained the rather interesting enclosed report "Headquarters USAF AIR Intelligence Report No. 100-203-79 " Analysis of Flying Object Incidents in the US" dated 10 December 1948, declassified 5 March 1985. You will notice that the Office of Naval Intelligence, Navy Department was apparently a co-author of this study. This is a FOIA request for related items, correspondence, reports, coordination meeting reports etc related to the ONI participation in this study. Perhaps there is an ONI historian who might be of assistance. I am also hereby under FOIA requesting other reports by ONI at his time relating to UFOs, flying objects etc. I understand that since this report was Top Secret that other reports might logically be expected to be TS.

Looking forward to your usual prompt and efficient response,

Most cordially,

Stanton T/ Friedman

Dear Mr. O'Neal:

This is in reply to your Freedom of Information Act request dated October 13, 1983, which was referred to us by the Department of the Air Force.

We have located 80 pages of records relating to your subject in the records of the Headquarters, United States Air Force (Record Group 341) and the records of the Office of the Secretary of Defense (Record Group 330). Copies of these records may be ordered for 25 cents per page.

Remittance should be made payable to the National Archives Trust Fund (NNMH) and sent to the Modern Military Headquarters Branch, National Archives and Records Service, Washington, DC 20408. Please return the enclosed copy of this letter with your payment.

We also have in our custody the records of Project BLUE BOOK, the Air Force investigations of unidentified flying objects from 1947 to 1969. The enclosed description of those records explains procedures for gaining access to those records.

The records of the Air Defense Command for the period 1947-1952 have not been accessioned by the National Archives. They are still in the legal custody of the Department of the Air Force. Only the Air Force can grant access to those records.

Dear Ed:

Just a quick note to say THANK YOU so much for your cooperation during my brief visit on March 8th. I very much appreciate your taking the time and checking on the various files that we discussed.

As a follow up to our conversations I am including more of the Roswell Incident papers and my paper The Cosmic Watergate.

I am also hereby making a Freedom of Information request for two different items.

1. The following items from the list of top secret intelligence reports. Copy attached. Items 3-2484, 5-32, 5-242, 5-254, 5-675, 5-720, 5-767, 5-1154, 5-1162, 5-1202, 5-1398, 5-1402, 5-1501, 5-1501A, 5-1643, 5-1769, 5-1795, 5-1795, 5-2015, 5-2285, 5-2697, 5-2827, 5-2828, 5-2829, 5-2833, 5-2862, and 5-2919. As you are aware I have no way of knowing what is in these. If it greatly simplifies the request, I am looking specifically for information related to flying discs, flying saucers, unidentified flying objects, anomalous aerial phenomena, etc. I do not really know how the review system works and whether it would be much easier, quicker and cheaper to just be looking for the UFO stuff and these things rather than having to review the entire collection of documents. Also I have no way of knowing how long each document is. I want to keep things easy and quick. As part of this request I would like copies of the lists of file documents for other years.
2. I am interested in obtaining similar flying saucer information from the OSI files in the Inspector General file. (R6341, I believe) I do not have a listing. Of course, I would appreciate that if it is possible. Again I want everything connected with flying discs, flying saucers, etc. If an item is totally unrelated to that then there is no point in going through the entire item. That is if it deals specifically with troops in Korea in 1948 I am not interested in that so there is no point in spending much time on it. If I could get a copy of a listing, it might be helpful. Although if the titles are in code again, it is not very useful. Also if it would help I would restrict my initial request to the material in that file from June 1, 1947 to December 31, 1948. Again if you could provide me with information on the file of the individual titles, then I could greatly reduce my request to simplify things.

With regard to the above, obviously it would be very attractive if somebody on the standard classification review program could go through these files and see about declassifying them and at the same time perhaps, pull out anything dealing with my subjects of interest.

I spoke today with Mr. Mahoney in your absence (my sincere sympathy on the death of your brother, having just lost a son). He agreed to provide a copy of the newly released document Air Intelligence Report 100-203-79 "Analysis of Flying Object Incidents in the US." 10 December, 1948. HQ USAF. I will call my close associate Dr. Bruce Maccabee who lives nearby to try to get him to pick up a copy...charge my account.

I established a depository account during my visit to the Suitland Facility, by depositing a cheque for $200 there. Again I have no idea how much material we are talking about, what the costs will be. At least we know where these files are, what their numbers are, etc. I really appreciate your continuing cooperation. Please feel free to call me collect at any time with any questions because as indicated above I wish to make this as simple and straight forward and rapidly as possible. I have no interest in increasing bills to the tax payers or myself.

Most cordially,

Stanton T. Friedman
